Engineer Officials Plan Survey of D. C. Needs

Estimates for paving streets, building of schools and extending sewers needed by the District, will be determined in a survey to be made by officials of the District Engineer Department, according to an announcement yesterday.

The survey, it is believed, will be used as a basis for some special plan of financing to be suggested to Congress. While a bond issue has been discussed informally by the Commissioners, it is pointed out that the first step to obtain such an issue or a loan from Congress would be to determine how much money would be needed to catch up in improvements.
